

GILBERT & SULLIVAN

SOCIETY OF AUSTIN

DECEMBER 2005 NEWSLETTER

From Your President

Dear Friends:

Our energetic members and friends will be staging Trial By Jury twice in December. I hope you will go. It will be in the "concert" style format we have used so successfully before. It's a very cute show with great music, and I'm sure many of you have seen it before. In fact we have staged it with full staging several times in the past. Many thanks to Arthur DiBianca for putting this together. Go twice! Bring your friends!

We are looking forward to the new year and the election of our Board of Directors at the annual business meeting on Monday January 9. Allan Longacre is chairing the Nominating Committee. He may be calling you. Make Allan's job a little easier — why don't you call him! Call Allan at 301-5611 or write to alongacre@austin.rr.com to say you interested in serving on our Board of Directors or want to suggest a nominee.

By serving on this Board, you can see to it that the good work we do is continued. You can see to it that quality and inspiring music and theater are available to our community. Plus, you may have a special idea for a new project, and you can see it accomplished. That's what you can do. Service on the Board is the bedrock foundation that all our wonderful activities are built on. It's volunteer work, because nobody is forced to do it. Volunteer today!

Best wishes to all, Bill Hatcher

CELEBRATION!!!

Please help us out!

The Gilbert & Sullivan Society of Austin will observe its 30th Anniversary in 2006. It is the second oldest and long-running dramatic organization in Austin. This is certainly worthy of Notice, and we hope to interest the local journals in reporting some of our history and outstanding performances. Will all members please come forward with newsworthy reminiscences? We especially hope to hear from those who were active in those exciting early days.

There is a family element to be publicized: We have three generations of Hallocks who have been involved with various aspects of production, starting with the first. And our original pianist, Felicity Coltman, is now represented by her daughter, Ann, serving on the Board, and one of her granddaughters who will sing in the upcoming production of Trial by Jury. What other interesting facts can we turn up with your help?

Allen Lawshae, Andy VanThullenar, Russell Gregory, Frank Delvy, Bill Hatcher, Curtis Wade, and Bart Spraberry in our 1989 production of H.M.S. Pinafore (at the Hyde Park Theater).

Sad News

On Sunday November 6, 2005, Bee Harris Polomé died at the age of 72, after a two and a half year battle with lung cancer. This was ironic, because Bee never smoked and followed a very healthful life style. Bee was a familiar figure at our G&S Musicales, and well-known in the Austin musical community. Her three daughters all have played in the Austin Symphony. She herself played viola with the Austin Civic Orchestra and served on their Board. She worked tirelessly to promote all things musical, and she led a full and interesting life. She asked that memorial donations be sent to one of four musical organizations she was active in, including the G&S Society of Austin. A memorial service is planned for Sunday November 20th at the Crestview United Methodist Church. The family also hopes to organize a musical commemoration at a later time and has invited the G&S Society to participate.

Trial by Jury

by Reba Gillman

Trial by Jury is only the second operetta Gilbert and Sullivan worked on together, but its success established them as a fantastic team. The plot draws on Gilbert's rather unrewarding experiences as a barrister. He gained insight into the peculiarities of English legal procedures but found he was far happier writing satire than practicing law.

As was often the case, Gilbert first developed the theme in a short form, this time to be published in the April 11, 1868, issue of FUN. He later fleshed it out with humorous details about the Judge, the Plaintiff, and the Defendant. There was no spoken dialog, and Sullivan was free to compose a cantata-like work. The delightfully funny result was first used by D'Oyly-Carte in 1875 as an end-piece after a production of Offenbach's La Périchole. It proved to be so popular that it far outshone the original attraction, and was regularly performed by the original D'Oyly Carte company as a double bill with either H.M.S. Pinafore or The Pirates of Penzance.

Isaac Goldberg, in The Story of Gilbert and Sullivan or the 'Compleat' Savoyard (Crown Publishers, New York, 1935), tells how Sullivan first heard Gilbert's libretto for this opera:

"From Sullivan himself we have a vivid picture of Gilbert calling upon him with the libretto, clad in a heavy fur coat against the thick snow and the intense cold. 'He read it through, as it seemed to me, in a perturbed sort of way, with a gradual crescendo of indignation, in the manner of a man considerably disappointed with what he had written. As soon as he had come to the last word he closed up the manuscript violently, apparently unconscious of the fact that he had achieved his purpose so far as I was concerned, inasmuch as I was screaming with laughter the whole time. The words and music were written, and all the rehearsals completed within the space of three weeks time.'"
